OFF THE HOOK

Some 170 suspects jump bail – including those wanted for murder and rape

By Lucy Purdy

HARINGEY police are chasing more than 170 criminals who have skipped bail or failed to turn up at court, including six wanted for attempted murder, rape or other serious sexual offences.

Officers in the borough are trying to track down a total of 174 bail bandits who have fled the courts in an attempt to escape justice – many are believed to be transient criminals on the run abroad.

Of the wanted suspects, one is sought on murder charges, two for, seven are alleged violent thugs suspected of committing GBH and another six are wanted for common assault. A further 12 are wanted on drugs offences and three people are wanted on suspicion of possessing knives and guns.

The bulk of the bail jumpers disappeared after being released from court or bail for more minor charges such as burglary, criminal damage, robbery and driving offences, according to the figures obtained by the Advertiser under the Freedom Of Information Act.

Councillor Robert Gorrie, leader of Haringey Liberal Democrats, said: "Residents will be astonished to hear so many alleged criminals, some suspected of attempted murder, are walking the streets. I share their concern."

"The police and the courts system need to ensure they are making the right decisions on releasing suspects on bail in order to protect the public and restore confidence in the system."

Critics have suggested overcrowded prisons and under-resourced police forces may help to explain why so many criminal suspects are roaming the streets. But the force insists it is doing all it can to catch up with absconded criminals in Haringey and haul them back before the courts. It has a dedicated warrants office to track suspects using intelligence systems and teams of officers also take part in proactive arrest days concentrating on executing warrants. A recent operation snared 102 suspects.

A police spokeswoman said: "Haringey is one of the top-performing boroughs, reaching our targets and carrying out about 20 to 30 warrants per week. We make initial attempts to execute a warrant within 24 hours. If this attempt fails, various units are tasked to execute the warrants and frontline officers are briefed and keep a look out for wanted suspects."

"We know that many of the people who are wanted for offences are no longer in the country and we work with international law enforcement agencies to locate these people and bring them back to face the courts."

"It is not possible to keep everyone in custody and, even in some serious cases, it is appropriate to give bail. In the majority of serious cases, it will be the court that gives bail. Our efforts are ongoing, we prioritise the most serious offences."

If any warrant is identified as being a danger to the public, all resources are used."

A spokesman for the Crown Prosecution Service, which can call for bail to be denied for some defendants, said: "The CPS will oppose bail for defendants where appropriate, taking particular account of the risk posed to victims and the public."

COWBOY clampers will be banned from slamming hefty fines on to unsuspecting drivers, Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone has announced.

Wheel-clamping on private land and the towing away of vehicles is to be banned by the government after complaints from all over the UK of exorbitant fees, invisible signs and abusive behaviour.

Ms Featherstone faces the task under her new portfolio as the equalities minister

She said: "Immobilisation has always had a track record of grief and misery. There cannot be an MP in the land who has not had constituents come to them who have been clamped unfairly.

"Reports of motorists being marched to cash points or left stranded after their car has been towed are simply unacceptable. We are committed to ending the menace of rogue private sector wheel-clampers once and for all."

But industry insiders have predicted a surge in dodgy practices before the new laws come in next year. Costas Constantino, director of Vehicle Control Solutions, based in Swains Lane, Highgate, is focusing on a system called Flash Park in which landowners can report parking contraventions online, rather than opt for on-the-spot clamping.

He said: "I heard about this weeks ago and, to be honest, I think it is probably the right thing to do. People have been complaining about dodgy clampers for a long time.

"There is going to be a surge between now and February. You are going to see some of the worst practices because it is still legal until they bring the legislation in. Firms are going to be going into receivership, so they're not going to care. They are going to milk it for all they can."

Motoring organisations have welcomed the impending ban; however, the British Parking Association said the plans were a "charter for the selfish parker" and that clamping was a last resort to landowners faced with persistent offenders.

Man imprisoned for strangling his wife after row

AN ABUSIVE man from Finsbury Park who strangled his wife to death while their baby son slept in the same room has been convicted of manslaughter.

Ronald Tyler killed 40-year-old Julie McKinley on New Year's Eve last year at the flat they shared in Stroud Green Road after the couple had an argument. The court heard how Tyler and the mother-of-four had been in a "turbulent" relationship for 18 years and married for the last three.

Police were called after an anonymous caller reported a woman lying dead at the flat. They found Ms McKinley's body there after forcing their way into the property and she was later pronounced dead by doctors at the Whittington Hospital in nearby Archway.

Tyler, 47, was arrested on January 2 and later charged with his wife's murder. The Old Bailey heard the couple rowed after Ms McKinley returned from a friend's party, culminating with Tyler strangling her in a fit of rage. After he killed her, he went out to buy alcohol before dialling 999 to report her death.

Tyler was cleared of murder but convicted of manslaughter by reason of provocation. He was told he would not be released for at least eight years.

Hostage drama leads to prison term

A SHOP manager whose family were held hostage while a gang robbed the store saw one of the perpetrators sent to jail for nine-and-a-half years last week.

Wander Vaz, 24, of Barking Road, Newham, was sentenced on August 18 at Wood Green Crown Court for five counts of false imprisonment and one of attempted robbery.

The 60-year-old shopkeeper was walking home on November 11 last year from the Bestway cash-and-carry store in Brantwood Road, Tottenham.

As he approached his home in Finsbury Park, he was approached by three black men wearing balaclavas and gloves and wielding two guns, a knife and a can of CS spray.

The man was bundled into his home and forced into the living room along with his wife, two daughters and two sons. All six were bound and gagged and had pillow cases placed over their heads before the victim was driven back to the store. The security guard was threatened with a gun and also tied and gagged before being locked in his own car.

After the owner was unable to unlock a safe, the attackers fled empty-handed. Vaz, who had remained at the family's home with the hostages, became agitated as he awaited news from his associates. When a relative tried to enter the house he panicked and fled.

Vaz pleaded guilty at Wood Green Crown Court on July 15 to five counts of false imprisonment and one of attempted robbery. A charge of kidnapping was left to lie on file.

Anyone with information about the other suspects should call 020 8358 1751.

Getting the needle: Noor Saeed says the club is vital to help members socialise

Knitting group for vulnerable faces chop – thanks to council cost-cutting

By Lucy Purdy

A POPULAR knitting club which provides a “friendly and comfortable” meeting place for people from all over Haringey has been banished from its free room at Wood Green Library for cost-cutting reasons.

The founder of the Let’s Get Together Knitting Group, Noor Saeed, has been left devastated after an out-of-the-blue phone call informing her that the group could no longer use a room at the library in High Road. The club has grown into a much-loved, all-welcoming group of about 20 since being established nine years ago and Miss Saeed fears many of her regulars would suffer if it closed completely.

She gives up her time to run the group and said she has not even received a letter officially informing her of Haringey Council’s decision.

“Suddenly they said we have to stop the club meeting here and that I would have to charge everyone if I wanted to stay there,” she said.

“But I don’t want to do that. My class is very delicate – some of the people are blind or partially sighted and some have learning difficulties.

“Everyone was so happy and comfortable with each other.

“It was somewhere for people who didn’t get out very much to meet up, chat, and learn some knitting, sewing and crocheting. I’m really upset and worried about its future.

“They said they would give me an invoice if I turned up. They shouldn’t be doing this to us – shutting us down for no good reason.”

Sessions were held every Thursday from 1.30–4.30pm and also on the third Sunday of every month from 12–4pm. Dismayed members resorted to using the café of the nearby Morrisons supermarket last week but Miss Saeed hopes a more permanent solution can be found.

Knitting group member Penny Rox said: “It is just a lovely, friendly bunch of people. Some of these people will just be stuck in their homes – they really looked forward to this and often brought along their own cakes or biscuits. It is such a shame.”

Everyone was so happy and comfortable with each other.

A spokeswoman for the council said: “Ms Saeed was notified about this several weeks ago and was reminded in a phone call recently.

“Unfortunately, in the current economic climate, we have now to make a small charge for the use of rooms in the library and we hope this will not deter regular users from making use of the facilities.”

Prison spell for spitting at inspector

A BUS passenger must spend six weeks behind bars for spitting at a Transport for London inspector. Abdurahman Dahir, 21, from Avenue Road, Tottenham, pleaded guilty to common assault at Highbury Corner Magistrates’ Court on July 27. He was travelling on a N55 night bus with a group of friends in March this year when they became abusive toward a TfL ticket inspector. The driver stopped the bus and the men were ordered off, when Dahir stood outside the doors he spat at the officer’s face and clothes. DNA evidence helped identify Dahir and he was arrested six weeks later. Chief Superintendent Joe Royle, of the safer transport command, said: “The minority who think they can assault staff and get away with it are wrong.”

Heartlands to open gates for new term

HEARTLANDS High School will open, as planned, to students and staff this September, Haringey Council has announced.

The secondary school in Station Road, Wood Green, is a key part of Haringey’s £200million Building Schools For The Future scheme and will include classrooms on four levels. The first 162 pupils can look forward to starting lessons from September after builders began work in August 2009. Its opening had been thrown into doubt after a harsh winter affected building work. Now the school is on track to be completed by spring 2011.

Headteacher Simon Garrill said: “Those involved have worked hard to get the school open. This commitment means Heartlands students get the best start.”

The school was named by local primary schoolchildren in a competition and will specialise in visual arts and the media.

Celebration: Deidre Spencer, Collin Kyerematen, and Tiffany Wizzard

THURSDAY was a day of jubilation for scores of hard-working six formers as the anxious waiting for A-level results came to an end.

Many students at the Haringey Sixth Form Centre, in White Hart Lane, Tottenham, could breathe a sigh of relief, while for others, who had not managed to get the grades they needed, the scramble for rapidly dwindling numbers of university places began in earnest.

Nineteen-year-old Collin Kyerematen was celebrating after learning that his two A grades and a C grade had won him a place to study law at the University of Sussex in Brighton. She said: "I'm really pleased. I was expecting to do well but it is a relief to know that the hard work has paid off."

"I'm going to be studying law, which is what I really wanted to do, but it has been quite stressful worrying about not getting a place and having to try to get one through clearing. I was a bit disappointed to get a C in English, though."

Classmate Deidre Spencer, 19, managed to pass five A-levels, including an extended project, which was a 3,000-word dissertation on autism. She said: "I'm so pleased as I didn't think I'd do well. I'm going to study psychology at the University of Hertfordshire."

"I'm relieved as I wasn't sure going into the exams. I was quite scared as I hadn't managed to get as much work done as I should have."

Tiffany Wizzard, 18, was delighted with her grades – an A in world development, two Bs in sociology and English and a C in psychology. She said: "I

Relief for many students who did their level best

Anxious: Two friends make the call to clearing for their university place RECORD numbers of A-level students in Haringey passed exams this year with an overall pass rate of 98.2 per cent.

Provisional figures show the average pass rate rose from 97.8 per cent in 2009 and compares to a national average of 97.6 per cent this year.

Councillor Lorna Reith, Haringey Council's cabinet member for children and young people, said: "I'm delighted so many students have done so well – not just the ones with As or A*s but everyone who worked hard to get good results."

"We're hoping that the vast majority will now go on to university courses or vocational training of their choice, despite recent publicity about increased competition for places due to cutbacks by universities, colleges and other institutions."

"Congratulations to them all – and to the teachers and other staff who have supported them."

Students at St Thomas More School, based in Glendale Avenue, Wood Green, notched up the most-improved set of results, despite a recent row between parents and school authorities over videos of rampaging pupils posted on the internet. The school's results went from 95 per A to E grades last year to 100 per cent this year. And teens at Fortismere School, based in Tetherdown, Muswell Hill, notched up the highest number of pupils getting the top A*-C grades with 87.2 per cent. Next best performing schools were Alexandra Park with 79.1 per cent and Highgate Wood with 70.6 per cent.

Visit www.haringey.gov.uk for a full list of results.

□ With hundreds of youngsters set to find out their A-level and GCSE results, Connexions Haringey is extending its opening hours during the last two weeks of August – offering guidance on work, training and further education places.

Connexions Personal Advisers will be on hand at secondaries today for students opening GCSE results. Until Friday, both Connexions centres, at Wood Green Library in High Road, and at the Marcus Garvey Library in Philip Lane, Tottenham, will also open longer.

loved world development, it was very interesting and now I have a place at Middlesex because it's one of the best for my subject. I did as well as I hoped, but much better than I thought I'd do."

Classmate Muse Omar, 18, is set to go to Thames Valley University to study for a degree in finance after scoring two distinctions and a merit in his BTEC. He said: "I'm very pleased. These days you have to study for something that will get you a job at the end of it. Going to university will be expensive."

"I knew already because two weeks ago I got a congratulations letter from them. But it's still a relief."

College principal June Jarrett said: "Already 111 of our students have places and many more have places conditional on their GCSE results as universities always want English and maths and some students come here to do their A-levels without having these. We have got 45 students who are still looking or who have decided to take gap years."

"Many have got on to good courses at good universities, one has got a comedy script-writing place at Southampton Solent, which is great, another has earned a place to study criminology at Holloway."

Flat experience: Cars park up to watch the film at Alexandra Park

Stalling at the drive-in movie

By Kim Inam

WRAPPED in a blanket, watching a film in a steamy car that's parked up at a north London landmark, I didn't get the nostalgic feeling of a drive-in movie I was hoping for.

I've seen how it's meant to be in films such as Grease; couples entwined and looking up at the big screen, groups of friends sitting on top of the back seats in their open-top cars, messing around and having a laugh.

However, sitting in a clearing-cum-overspill car park at Alexandra Palace, that jovial feeling was lacking, despite the earnest attempts of the pre-film entertainment with ice cream giveaways and a movie quiz.

Perhaps the romantic clench is not as easy now that driver and passenger have individual seats with a handbrake and gear stick inbetween, not like Danny's Ford 1948 convertible in Grease.

And groups of friends are a bit more restrained, perhaps because open top-cars are not as popular in the UK due to our inclement weather.

Drive-in theatres were created in the early 1930s in New Jersey and became popular across the US in the 1950s. At first, sound was projected from speakers behind the large screen, then through individual speakers attached to each car and later through radio waves. Their popularity ended in the 1970s and many drive-ins resorted to showing adult films as their reputation declined: the media labelled them "passion pits".

But in the 21st century, just like holidays in Britain, drive-in movies are being revived, and last week the RAC hosted three movie nights at Alexandra Palace, showing Transformers (2007), Dirty Dancing (1987) and The Italian Job (1969).

Pulling into the overspill car park we were each given a blanket, a free windscreen clean and vouchers for popcorn before being guided to a space in front of the oversized screen. Passengers were also handed wireless headsets and the audience could choose whether to listen to the movie's soundtrack through them or the car radio. The cars – Cadillacs or Chevys had been replaced by Astras and Golfs – were lined up in staggered rows in front of the big screen.

After collecting my free popcorn (strangely, it was neither salted nor sweet) and drink at the concession stand, I returned to the car and looked around.

The scene reminded me of being on the Tube in rush hour, with nobody wanting to make eye-contact. As I looked over to my left, I made the mistake of locking eyes with the female passenger in the car next to me – I smiled, but all I got was a blank stare before she turned her eyes to the screen which told her to tune the radio to AM frequency. Come on! This is meant to be a fun night out, we are not on our way into work on a Monday morning...

After a movie quiz, in which entertainers ran past audience bestowing a lucky few winners with Scalextric sets, the film started.

The screen quality was as good as a cinema screen, although being parked in the penultimate row as a passenger I did find the bottom-left corner of the screen was cut off by the roof of a Vaux-hall Corsa, instead of someone's head. We experimented using the car radio for sound, but a fear of a flat battery had us plumping for the headphones instead. And, sure enough, at the end of the screening an RAC van had to jump-start one unfortunate car.

However, the headphones left me feeling isolated and conversation within the car was virtually non-existent.

As the film rolled I was able to forget I was sitting in the middle of a car park, although as the air got colder the windscreen steamed up and we had to fish around for our blankets. And it still felt like I was sitting in a cinema, but with the additional drawback of interruptions as people passed the cars, frightening me as darkness descended.

But a bonus point was seeing a shooting star light up the sky, as the meteor shower occurred that night.

Perhaps if the heatwave of a few weeks ago had lingered until the RAC's Drive-In Movies came to north London, my experience may have been a little more positive. But after pulling away from Alexandra Palace, feeling cold under a layer of condensation and wondering if I was going to get sick, I don't find myself hankering for this experience again.

I'd prefer to sit in a cinema or rent a movie at home instead.

New police chief aims to improve community relations

Challenge:
Chief Inspector
Sonia Davis

By Lucy Purdy

A FORMER barmaid has swapped pulling pints for pulling in the criminals as she takes over one of the top roles at Haringey police.

The borough's new head of community policing is Chief Inspector Sonia Davis, who has taken over from Chief Inspector Jon Williams. The 42-year-old, originally from Essex, will take care of Haringey's 19 Safer Neighbourhood teams and promises to put her "life experience" to good use in the new role.

She worked as assistant manager at a bar in Tottenham High Road before deciding to join the police and first served in Haringey as a sergeant in 2001.

Chief Inspector Davis said: "I was immediately struck by the keenness and professionalism of the police officers and staff in the borough. I thoroughly enjoyed my time here and vowed one day to return and so I am absolutely delighted to be back in Haringey."

Chief Insp Davis was promoted to inspector in 2005 in the immediate aftermath of the 7/7 bombings and managed the counter-terrorism office in Tower Hamlets, liaising with multinational banks and other major businesses in Canary Wharf.

Chief Insp Davis lived in Archway as a teenager when she first moved to London. After her original stint in Haringey she joined the mounted branch of the Met where she policed the Lord Mayor's Show, Trooping the Colour and other major events on horseback.

Now her plan is to maintain and strengthen relationships between police and residents, and encouraged everyone to get involved in changing their communities for the better.

Chief Insp Davis added: "I know that Jon Williams is a very hard act to follow but I am determined to maintain and, where possible, improve the partnerships that he has forged across the borough.

"What has remained unchanged in Haringey is the high level of skill, pride and professionalism displayed by the officers and staff here at Haringey. I consider myself privileged to work alongside them and I am really looking forward to meeting the challenges that lie ahead."

Officers snare 120 people in blitz on litter

LITTER louts caught throwing crisp packets, drinks cans and cigarette butts on to the streets of Wood Green were each fined £75 in a blitz by council officers.

Enforcement officers caught 120 people littering the streets and slapped each one with a fixed penalty notice of £75 during a week-long operation last week. This is part of Haringey Council's new zero tolerance policy on littering aimed at keeping the streets clean and saving thousands of pounds in clean-up bills.

Councillor Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for neighbourhoods, said: "We really mean business. The council cannot continue to pay thousands of pounds of taxpayers' money to pick up after litter louts. People must take responsibility themselves for disposing of their incidental rubbish.

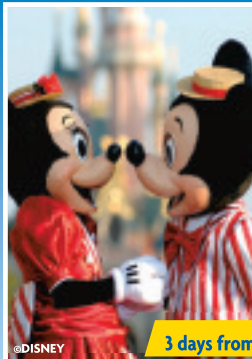

"There are litter bins and recycling bins along the high street and there is no excuse not to use them. If people are caught littering or throwing cigarette butts on to the pavement, they can expect a hefty penalty."

One person was also fined for fly-posting and two penalty notices were issued for illegal street trading. Representatives of a paintball company had set up a stall on the road to promote its services but failed to get a street trading licence from the council.

Another person distributing free literature without a licence was also fined and had the material seized.

Anyone now caught dropping litter of any form will be given a fixed penalty notice and have to pay £75. The operation is also targeting motorists who drop litter from their vehicle windows.

Saddle up for the Mayor of London's Sky Ride!

Dust off your bike this summer and join in a free family cycling event, the Mayor of London's Sky Ride on Sunday 5th September, organised by the Mayor of London and Sky.

Thousands of people of all ages and cycling abilities are expected to join in the mass participation bike ride, in which cyclists can take in the sights of central London on traffic-free streets.

The Mayor of London's Sky Ride is just one of many events taking place across the country that is being backed by a line-up of celebrities and pro-cyclists. Olympic gold medallist Sir Chris Hoy and model and actress Kelly Brook will be attending the event and cycling the route with participants.

Mayor Boris Johnson said: "Sky Ride is a fantastic event, where everyone – no matter what age or cycling ability – can experience the fun of the bike, free from interference from cars. It will be a veritable festival of cycling – celebrating the cleanest, greenest, handiest way of getting about town. A real cycling revolution is taking place in London and I want to say to Londoners that there has never been a better time to give pedal power a punt."

The Mayor of London's Sky Ride route opens at 9.30 am giving cyclists plenty of time to cycle the route which will re-open to traffic at 4.30pm. There are no limits on the number of times you cycle round, keep going as many times as your legs will carry you.

Last year over 65,000 cyclists lined the route which took participants along the Embankment, up the Mall, into St James's Park and out to St Pauls – for this year's route details visit goskyride.com.

As well as providing a unique opportunity to see the Capital in a traffic-free environment, there will also be a range of activities taking place along the route to keep all the family entertained. Whilst you're pedalling along the route, keep your eye out for Dora the Explorer and her friends. You'll need to make a note of where you saw them on your special explorer map for a chance to win some great prizes. Participants are also being encouraged to get creative with their cycling outfits and bike accessories. A fancy dress competition will take place with prizes for the best Wacky Riders.

If you need a break from the cycling, you'll also find a bumper line up of top entertainment taking place throughout the day. These include activities on the Sky Ride Entertainment Stage which will showcase a variety of entertainment including interactive TV shows, celebrity interviews, games and quizzes. There is also plenty of space for you to relax, watch and enjoy all the fun going on around you.

Sir Chris Hoy, Sky Ride ambassador, said: "Sky has a genuine opportunity to make a positive difference to people's lives by encouraging as many people as possible to get on their bikes. I had a fantastic time at last year's events in Glasgow and London and it was great to see so many families enjoying all the activities and having fun. I am thoroughly looking forward to attending the Mayor of London's Sky Ride again this year."

Kelly Brook, Sky Ride ambassador, said: "Having taken part in Sky Ride last year, I'm really looking forward to being involved again this summer. I love cycling and it's such a fantastic way to keep fit, the best part about these events is that it doesn't matter if you're a novice or a more experienced rider; they have something for all ages and abilities. Over 60,000 people came to last year's Mayor of London Sky Ride and I hope to see even more people coming down on September 5th."

Additionally, free Sky Ride Local events will take place in and around London every weekend until October. British Cycling trained cycle leaders will guide groups on routes, taking in everything from historic sites to points of interest. With a range of levels suitable for everyone from families with young children, to those looking to get fit and more experienced riders, there will be something for everyone.

Incentives are available to those cyclists who want to get out and about more often this summer. The rewards range from Sky Ride branded clothing to cycling holidays. The Sky Ride Reward Scheme is a great way to set a cycling goal for the whole family, encouraging everyone to get on their bikes and win some great prizes. But hurry places are filling fast.

Awkward laughs

Diary Of A Wimpy Kid (PG)

Dir: Thor Freudenthal
Starring: Zachary Gordon, Robert Capron, Devon Bostick

DAMN the ages between 11 and 14. What bright spark thought those years up?

The era of utter awkwardness spent floundering somewhere between not-childhood and not-adulthood; a purgatory of cool rules, the opposite sex and fiendish social games you have no hope of understanding.

America is one of those countries which has created a whole institution around this uncomfortable period – middle school – so compressing all the angst and neuroses into one cruel building.

Even Hollywood has overlooked this period of adolescence, preferring instead to concentrate on cute, primary school kids or cocky high school teenagers, so all the more praise to Jeff Kinney for his funny, hugely successful Diary Of A Wimpy Kid comic books, which focus on the awkward age with laser-guided perception and compassion.

The first of these has now been made into a film and what surprises is how truthful it is to the books' tone, which resists patronising, ridiculing or prettifying for something more honest and real.

Greg Heffley (Zachary Gordon) has just started middle school with his chubby mate Rowley (Robert Capron) and he just can't work out how you get to be popular or even decipher this new etiquette. "People say 'cute butt!'" says Greg. "A butt can't be cute – it's a butt!" responds an equally bewildered Rowley.

Joining the wrestling team, playing a tree in the school musical, even faking an injury, Greg can't join the admired and a betrayal of his best mate means only the carrot-topped misfit Fregley stands between him and social annihilation.

Like its genesis the film is too episodic with not a strong enough narrative drive to earn a fourth star, but it is a breath of fresh air: the central hero is a bit selfish and flawed, it's a buddy movie rather than the more obvious romantic mush, and it's funny. So, unlike some other films this summer, any future sequel will be something desired rather than dreaded.

by Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

Salt (12A)

Jason Bourne's younger sister, super-spy Evelyn Salt, legs it round America in this enjoyably ridiculous action adventure containing more twists and U-turns than a Liberal Democrat in power. Angelina Jolie provides the beauty and the brawn and it's just a shame the writer was not able to provide the brains.

The Last Airbender (PG)

Once you've got over the hilarious repetition of the word "bender" and the duff dialogue, plot and characters... there isn't much left to say about M. Night Shyamalan's latest fall from grace. Poor man's Lord Of The Rings based on a cartoon about mystics who can bend fire, water, earth and air.

Knight And Day (12A)

The latest blockbuster in what has so far been an unusually healthy summer. Remember the scintillating partnership Tom Cruise and Cameron Diaz made in Vanilla Sky? No? Well, for those who missed that huge non-event the bland duo have returned for seconds in this spy caper comedy, which has been done so much better in every other spy caper film ever made.

food

Medi Lounge & Grill, 860 High Road, North Finchley.
020 8446 8444

THE EXPERIENCE of dining at Medi Lounge & Grill cannot be described as anything other than thoroughly enjoyable.

Having spent several minutes admiring the decor, which includes beautifully coloured orchids on every table and rather exotic palm trees throughout the room, our gannet attention turned to the rather extensive menu.

Medi provides diners with a wonderful choice of Greek, Turkish and Arabic cuisine, without overwhelming diners with a ridiculously over-complicated selection.

Eventually I chose the Medi garlic prawns to start (£5.85), followed by the lamb shish (£10.95). Both dishes were delicious and the flavours were wonderful without being overpowering. Throughout the evening it was service with a smile and at no point did we feel any pressure to quickly order, eat and leave as you often find in busy restaurants. The whole meal was incredibly relaxing and the atmosphere was great. In fact, the only thing that we weren't overwhelmingly impressed with was the choice of music – and I'm sure that plenty would disagree with that assessment.

Having opened the restaurant in the spring of 2008, Medi faced fierce competition from another Greek eatery just a few shops away. However, the prospect of a rival restaurant did not worry the man behind Medi's success, Sean Kadir. He said: "The local people have been so supportive – everyone kept coming to eat here despite the recession and now I want to give back to the community that has looked after us."

Sean ensures that Medi plays an active role in local charity projects and is currently organising a fundraiser for the Breast Cancer Campaign to be held at the restaurant in October.

Desire for fine dining: Restaurateur Sean Kadir talks business

It's clear that Sean is incredibly passionate about Medi: he takes great care to introduce me to the three main chefs (all of whom are from either Turkey or Greece) and to describe planned renovations for the restaurant (fire places in both dining rooms and beautiful new bathrooms). With such a passionate driving force behind it, it's not a wonder that Medi continues to thrive.

● Medi is open 11am-11pm Sundays to Thursdays and 11am-midnight, Fridays and Saturdays.

what's on

Circus skills on top with Lane classes

OVER the past few years Jacksons Lane has firmly established itself at the forefront of the circus and cabaret scene.

While other arts centres struggle to create their own identities, the Archway Road venue has made a bold decision to go it alone at the risk of alienating theatre-goers intent on more traditional fare.

It seems to have worked, with shows selling out, collaborations with companies producing inventive pieces of theatre and a series of specialised workshops about to begin.

The latest initiative is a threefold series of circus workshops for adults and young people, aimed at three-year-olds right up to adults.

Teaming up with Hoxton's Circus Space Tiny Tops, children aged three to five can join an interactive circus session featuring acrobatics, juggling and play to help develop hand and eye co-ordination, balance and creativity. These run on Thursdays from September 16 to December 9 from 10.30am to 11.30am and 11.30am to 12.30pm.

Next up is Jacksons Lane Youth Circus, run by the Lane's associate artists So & So Circus on Sundays for ten to 16-year-olds. Juggling, stilt-walking and unicycling will be some of the skills you can learn from September 19 to November 28, 2pm to 4pm.

Finally the adults have a chance to shine in Adult Acrobatic Balancing which will follow the youth circus from 4pm to 6pm on the same dates. Again, So & So will be running the weekly classes suitable for everyone over 16 years old, for absolute beginners as well as those with some experience.

● For more details and admission charge call the box office on 020 8341 4421.

Parasol poise: Adult Acrobatic Balancing class

Out and about

● WITH up to 16 new comics on display there should be a busy bar downstairs at the King's Head tomorrow night. The notorious Comedy Try Out Night returns to the club below the King's Head in Crouch End Hill, Crouch End, featuring some of the brightest – and darkest – acts on the circuit. Doors open at 8pm and tickets cost £4 (£3 concessions). Call the box office on 020 8340 1028.

● ACCLAIMED painter David Graham looks back on 70 years at Lauderdale House in Highgate until Sunday. More than 100 paintings will be on display featuring recent work in Prague, Spain, Morocco, Israel and Venice plus many portraits. Admission is free. The house is open from 11am to 4pm on weekdays, and Sundays, from noon to 5pm.

● THE Millfield Arts Centre is back up and running after the summer break with a new season starting next Saturday. Danger Mouse Saves The World is the name of the show which resurrects the 1980s cartoon hero alongside Penfold and arch-enemy Baron Silas Greenback. There are shows at 1.30pm and 4pm and tickets cost £10 (£7 concessions). For more details and reservations call the Edmonton venue on 020 8807 6680.

More Top Property Tips for Sellers

This week the focus is on 'getting the property ready to show!'

Declutter – Now this is a sensitive issue for some, and the No 1 question is How far do you have to go? The best way to approach this is to remember that you are going to have to pack anyway when you sell, so why not kill two birds with one stone by packing the stuff you don't need on an everyday basis.

Time to get tough, it's the only way... Are you really going to read all those books, or watch all those DVD's in the next few weeks? If the answer is no then get it packed up, be ruthless and honest with yourself, you will feel better later!

If you have young children, then a large toy box containing their most favourite toys is a good compromise, it can be covered over in seconds and you can even sit a plant on it for the viewing.

Bedrooms – We all have to rush around these days, but every single viewing counts so spend a few extra minutes to make sure the beds are made. The curtains should be open and straight and there shouldn't be any clothes laying around. Try and remove large objects like suitcases (if stored on top of the wardrobes), they scream out to buyers that you have a lack of storage space (even if you don't) and keep the room aired.

Don't go over the top and turn your property into a show home, just remove any distractions. Follow this simple advice and you will soon be making the most of every single viewing in what some consider to be a buyer's market at the moment.

ATTENTION LANDLORDS!

BTC LETTINGS WILL MANAGE ALL YOUR PROPERTY HEADACHES FOR ONLY 5%

Wouldn't it be great if the only thing you had to do with letting your property was enjoy your monthly income?

- * Properties urgently required
- * 1-3 years guaranteed rent available
- * Tenants with full referencing and guarantors
- * Contracts with Australian - New Zealand teachers, Indian IT graduates
- * Property Inspection Report every three months

Rents we will achieve for your flat/house:

- ★ Studio £650 - £750;
- ★ 1 bed £750 - £800;
- ★ 2 bed £950 - £1050;
- ★ 3 bed £1200 - £1300;
- ★ 4 bed £1500 - £1700;
- ★ 5 bed £2000+

BTC Lettings market reviews:

- ★ With not many property owners wanting to sell in this market, there is an overspill of properties to let, here at BTC we have over 200 properties to let
  - ★ We are letting 1-3 properties a day - up to 50 a month, i.e. ONLY THE BEST SURVIVE!
  - ★ With hunting tenants having soooo much choice, one thing is clear and very important. There is just too much competition, if you are thinking of letting your property, the condition/decoration will have to be of high standard, (laminated flooring would be a good tip!).
  - ★ Apart from poor condition, you may particularly struggle to find tenants if the property is above commercial property or in a high rise block.
  - ★ Landlords accepting tenants on housing benefit are achieving higher rent.
  - ★ Apart from gas safety certificate, all newly let properties must have an EPC certificate (Energy performance certificate).
- If you have any more questions/queries relating to letting your property or current letting market, please call us on 020 8889 7474

Traffic Despatcher

North London

Biffa is a leading integrated waste management business in the UK. It provides collection, treatment and recycling, and disposal services to around 80,000 commercial/industrial customers and over one million households through its local authority contracts.

This is a role that keeps us working efficiently and effectively, ensuring we provide the best possible service to our customers – at all times. It will take a born organiser, someone with a strong administrative streak and good computer skills. A CPC qualification is preferable, whilst an interest in Health & Safety is essential.

You'll be optimising collections, data inputting and monitoring the performance of drivers and operatives. Some experience in people-management is essential as you'll be managing, training and developing the workforce as required. You'll ensure compliance with transport and environmental legislation and contribute to ongoing cost control and actively seek to improve efficiency and reduce operating costs. It can be a demanding but rewarding role where the salary and prospects are excellent.

If you're interested in this challenging role, please send your CV quoting Ref: B20083, and stating current salary, to Amy Everitt, Biffa Waste Services Limited, Coronation Road, Cressex, High Wycombe, Bucks HP12 3TZ or email her at amy.everitt@biffa.co.uk

Closing date: 8th September 2010.

Details of all our vacancies can be found at www.biffa.co.uk

We are an equal opportunities employer.

SUPER BALE SINKS STOKE

By Lee Husson

TOTTENHAM manager Harry Redknapp hailed his side after Gareth Bale's wonder-strike gave Spurs all three points at Stoke on Saturday.

Bale had opened the scoring at the Britannia Stadium with a freak goal when City defender Ryan Shawcross' attempted goalline clearance hit the Spurs player in the face and rebounded into the net.

Ricardo Fuller equalised after an error by Heurelho Gomes at a corner, but Bale struck home a majestic volley into the top corner from Aaron Lennon's cross to restore Spurs' lead.

Controversy reigned in injury time however as Stoke were denied a goal despite Jon Walters appearing to head the ball over the line before Peter Crouch cleared.

But referee Chris Foy decided that the whole ball had not crossed the line, much to the home side's fury, as Tottenham held on for the points.

"We controlled the first half completely," Redknapp said. "But it was more difficult in the second half to get the ball down and pass it. First half I'm sure if you looked at the possession we had unbelievable control of the game.

"This is a tough place to come. Stoke are a good side and a difficult side to play against. To come here and play as well as we did, it was a great result on the back of a tough week.

"The second goal was absolutely unbelievable. If there is a better goal this season it's going to be difficult to beat."

Spurs face Young Boys in the second leg of their Champions League qualifier tonight after escaping with a 3-2 defeat in Berne last week having been 3-0 down, but Redknapp insists that his side have the momentum to get through the tie.

"We're bang in that game still. White Hart Lane will be jumping and it will be a great atmosphere," he added.

"We're playing very well. We played great against Man City last week, we just had a bad 25/30 minutes in Switzerland and it cost us. But we got two goals back and it shows the character."

Brandon makes a point with a late, late strike

A STOPPAGE-TIME strike from Jamie Brandon saw Haringey Borough snatch a 2-2 draw from their Spartan Premier clash at Leverstock Green on Saturday.

Chances were few and far between in the first half, but the best of them fell to the home side, with Luke Flood firing a shot wide after 15 minutes, before Leverstock were awarded a dubious penalty after a player went down in the box as a cross came over.

Lee Bircham made no mistake as he coolly dispatched the spot-kick.

Steve Hatch went close to doubling the lead when his long-range strike flew narrowly over, while Steve Hutchins could only head off-target when well-placed.

Borough started the second half much brighter, and Theo Charalambous smashed a shot against the crossbar, with Ronnie Bridges poking the rebound wide.

Charlie Gorman hit the woodwork at the other end, but the visitors pulled level when Demetri Stratis broke away down the left before cutting back for Luke Bryan to steer his shot past keeper Carl Takser.

The lead lasted just two minutes however as Bircham crossed for Louis Austin to head home at the far post.

Austin was denied a second by a fine recovery challenge from Nick Nicou as he went through on goal in the closing stages, but in the second minute of stoppage-time the hosts lost possession carelessly in their own half and were punished as Brandon weaved his way through before firing beyond Tasker.
